THERE WAS A TIME

There was a time when time wasn't such a bother. When right and wrong were distinguishable. When we did things the right way not because it was trendy or artisanal or in vogue. But because it was the right way. We needed no reason other than that. It was the right way. And the right way made food taste better. Made machines run smoother. Made buildings stand stronger. Made clothing more durable. And made people more accountable. The right way.

It took a little more time perhaps. It took more effort. It might have even demanded a bit of backbone. But it was the right way, and so it was right.

Then the world decided to cut corners. To make it faster. To make it cheaper. To sacrifice quality and character and virtue for speed. For efficiency. For a price. Suddenly, a loaf of bread could last a month while a car couldn't. Suddenly, marriages lasted a year while grudges persisted forever. Pens, razors, relationships, everything became disposable. Nothing lasted anymore. And to us, that was not the right way. And never would be.

So we started GrainMaker. It was our way of saying, enough. Our way of declaring war on corner cutters and efficiency experts and all those consultants who brought us faster, cheaper, tasteless products. It was our little contribution to stopping the madness. But more than that. It was the right way to do it.

It was the right way to build a machine. To make bread. To craft foods in a way that was better for our hearts. And better for our souls. It was our way of getting back in touch with the earth. Of getting the most out of what we've been given. Of realizing that fulfillment is a greater virtue than fast. Of understanding that life goes by so quickly that it makes more sense to slow things down than to rush them along. That's the right way.

And we make GrainMaker in the right place. In America. But not just in America. In Montana. That part of America that has no use for anything dainty or darling or fragile. In Montana. Where strength of character meets strength of purpose, and where there's precious little time for anything too precious. And that's why we do what we do the way we do it. And when you do things the right way, you don't look to change. You look to change those who don't.

GRAINMAKER. WE'LL NEVER CHANGE.

INTRODUCTION

Your heirloom quality GrainMaker® Sorghum Press comes complete with everything you need to start pressing — all you need to add is quality sorghum or cane.

Your mill can extract juice from the cane in one pass and is geared to allow most folks the ability to comfortably turn. Your GrainMaker® Sorghum Press was manufactured in a facility that has wheat and nuts.

Every GrainMaker® Sorghum Press is individually manufactured. We have designed it allow you the ability to take apart and clean by following the instructions on the next page. As with any of our products, we encourage you to contact us should you have any questions with your GrainMaker® Sorghum Press.

SET-UP

With just a few simple steps, you will be on your way to grinding your own wholesome ingredients!

1. Be sure you set your Sorghum Press on a secure surface that is capable of supporting at least 260 pounds.

BONNIE'S RECIPE

APPLE SORGHUM BREAD

- 1 Stick Butter, softened
- 1/2 Cup Sugar
- 3 Eggs, room temperature
- 2 Cups self-rising flour
- 1/2 tsp. Ground Cinnamon
- 1/4 tsp. Nutmeg
- 1 Cup Applesauce
- 1/4 Cup Sorghum Syrup
- 1 Cup Raisins
- 1/2 Cup Chopped Nuts

Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs, 1 at a time, beating well after each addition. Combine flour, cinnamon and nutmeg. Set aside. Mix applesauce and sorghum syrup. Add dry ingredients alternately with applesauce mixture to egg mixture. Fold in raisins and nuts. Pour into greased loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour or until toothpick comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes. Remove from pan and continue cooling on wire rack.

Makes 1 loaf. May be frozen.

FINE PRINT

GrainMaker® Mills and accessories are not toys. Adult supervision is required. The GrainMaker® must be secured to a proper surface capable of supporting at least 250# before using. Observe all safety precautions.

NOTE: Our shiny red mills and finely crafted accessories are practically irresistible to children. Get in the habit of removing the handle when not in use so children aren't tempted to reach for it, and please supervise children around the mill at all times.
